If someone does something unjust or dishonest, it's natural to think they deserve to be punished

But believing in something sincerely, whether it turns out to be the truth or not in the end, to me that's not wrong in itself

It's up to you to confirm if what you know is the truth

Just Ask Yuli

by Yulius Efferven

Well I don't believe in it because there's no evidence that it's true.

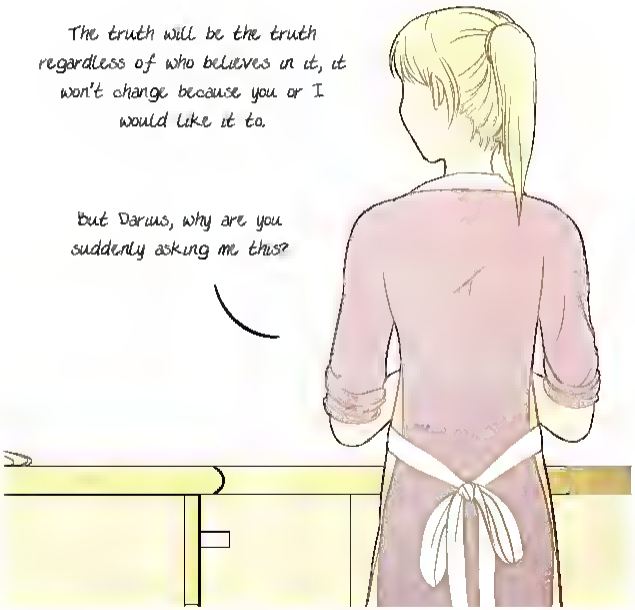
Other than people's personal anecdotes, what proof is there?

Does that worry you Darius?

If God really appeared in front of me, I don't think it'll be too late to believe in him then

The truth will be the truth regardless of who believes in it, it won't change because you or I would like it to.

But Darius, why are you suddenly asking me this?



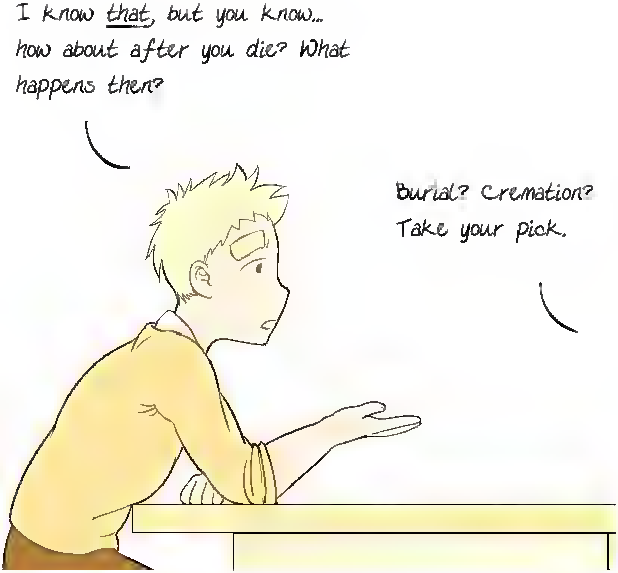
No I mean you know... the person's consciousness and stuff.

... Nothing.

Instead of that, why...

Why don't you want to believe in something else, any religion, any God, even if it's just your personal God?

It's just gone? Disappears? You're okay with believing that?



I know that, but you know... how about after you die? What happens then?
Burial? Cremation? Take your pick.

What do you believe in then?

I believe in Science Darius.

Hey wait! I'm against unconsented lectures and family violence!
That's against the law!

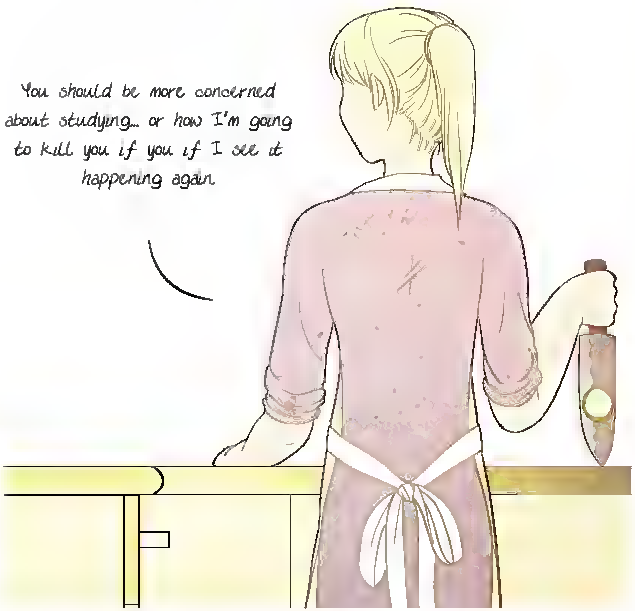
This is a work of fiction any resemblenace to existing persons real or otherwise is purely coincidental

Ahh... well...

a few of my friends go to church you know, so I was just wondering.

Ahh... is that so?

Then do you think they're stupid? All the believers? For believing something when there's no evidence?

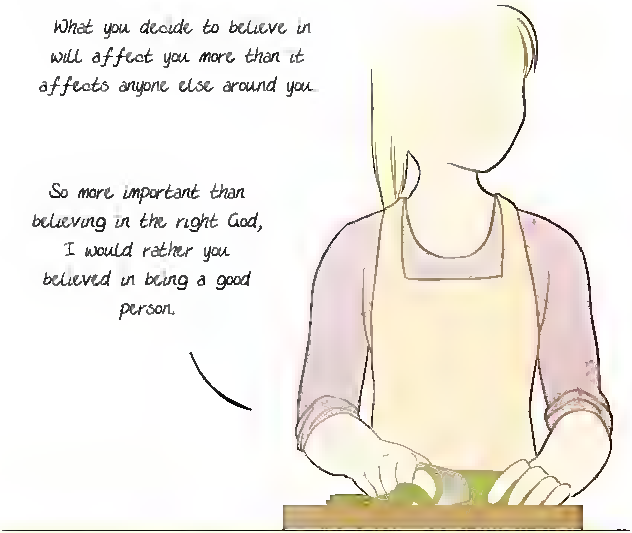


But honestly Darius. 26 out of 100 on your Math test?
You should be more concerned about studying... or how I'm going to kill you if you if I see it happening again

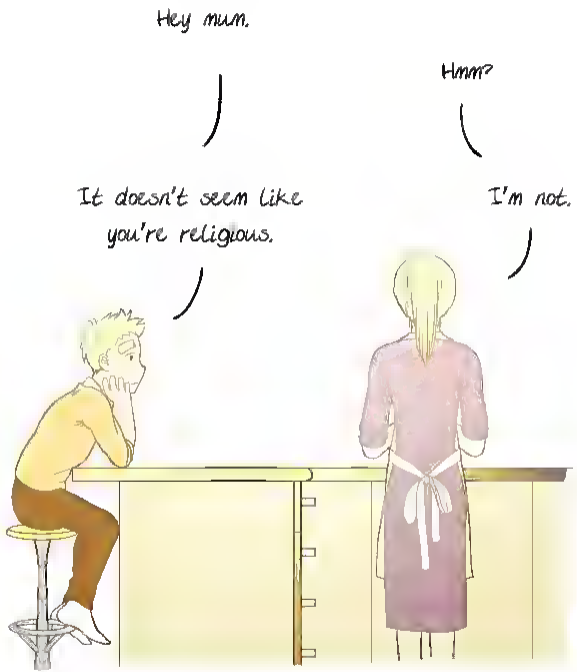
I think we should all have the freedom to believe in what we want to believe in, if that belief doesn't hurt us or anyone else

What you decide to believe in will affect you more than it affects anyone else around you

So more important than believing in the right God, I would rather you believed in being a good person.



Are you trying to kill yourself before I can?
OOF



Hey mum.
Hmm?
It doesn't seem like you're religious.
I'm not.

Do you still believe God? Like any God?
Hmmm...
No.

Hello readers!

Thanks for sticking with me and the story thus far! It's been a bit of a rocky road and I'm still working out a lot of things

I noticed that our ratings have been going down for a while now and perhaps there are things I could be doing better

I thought I'd take this opportunity to ask the readers what things they'd like to see more of (or less of) and if there are questions they'd like to see being asked in the comic

I'll make sure to read all your comments and if there is some consensus perhaps there will be a episode in the future made with your assistance!

Thanks for making this comic possible!

With much love

~Yuli

Just a small notice for those who were upset with episode 13 - Identity Issues

Because of a possible misunderstanding of the content a notice has been added to the end of that comic to explain, thanks for reading and sorry about that! Hope you continue to enjoy the story!